Bathed in scenic beauty, Martha's Vineyard attracts wide-eyed day-trippers, celebrity second-home owners, and urbanites seeking a restful getaway; its 15,000 year-round residents include many artists, musicians and back-to-nature types. The Vineyard remains untouched by the kind of rampant commercialism found on the mainland. There is not a single chain restaurant or cookie-cutter motel in sight. Instead, you'll find cozy inns, chef-driven restaurants and a bounty of green farms and grand beaches. And there is something for every mood here; fine dining in gentrified Edgartown one day and hitting the cotton candy and carousel scene in Oak Bluffs the next. (The Lonely Planet.)

The resort offers tennis, a heated pool, a spa and more. The hotel's concierge can help with activities such as biking, golf, deep sea fishing, whale watching, tall ship cruises and more. SEALI plans to organize several group activities and will provide more information closer to the time of the meeting.
